

Commercial Packaging

Definition: Commercial packaging means that the seed is packaged in a way that would be ready for sale and makes clear that the seed is commercially sourced. It must list the full botanical name (genus and species) of the seed it holds and the name of the company that has produced the goods.

Examples of seed that is commercially packaged

- It is clear that the seed is commercially sourced
- Packaging is ready for sale
- Seed packaging displays name of the company that has produced the seed

Examples of seed that is not commercially packaged

- It is not clear that the seed is commercially sourced
- Seed is not packaged ready for sale
- Seed packaging does not display the company logo
